Public meeting to see planning proposals for Greytrees field

THERE will be a public meeting at St Mary's Church Hall in Ross-on-Wye this week for residents to give their views on a possible development at Greytrees.

A company is looking to get an area of open space included as a potential site in the Neighbourhood Plan. Members of the consultant team will be on hand to answer any questions.

The meeting is on Thursday, September 27th between 3pm and 8pm.

Melvyn Reynolds, Chair of Ross-on-Wye Town Council's Neighbourhood Plan Sub Committee told the Ross Gazette that he had spoken with the company and told them that if the Greytrees community supported the proposal the Steering Group would be responsive to that.

Orangery plans

AN application has been made to Herefordshire Council planning committee for permission for alterations to the Brooks Country House Hotel, Peterstow, Ross-on-Wye. The proposal is for a single storey Orangery extension to the south façade of Pengethley Manor and the covering over of adjacent archeological remains.

The developers say they aim to deliver a high quality design which is appropriate for an historic building.

The property has previously been extended to provide additional toilet and storage room facilities adjacent to the extension location. The proposed orangery is to abut the existing building and will extend over the Regency gable onto the modern toilet wing. It will be necessary to reconfigure the roof and south wall of the WC block to form this intervention but will not harm any original features from the listed building.

Proposed materials are a high-quality mix of painted timber doors and windows to match the main building.

A decision is expected to be made by October 17th.
